

2025 Community Impact Days

As part of McKesson's annual Community Impact Days, the McKesson Institute of Community & Health is hosting a six-part, virtual education series, "Advancing Health Outcomes Through Food Access," exploring the powerful intersection of nutrition, health and well-being across our communities.

Each session is 30-minutes, open to the public, and features experts from across the healthcare industry. Sessions qualify as non-certified CE's for Community Health Workers.

Please register for each session individually.
